Regulation J is the law governing all wire transfer transactions. If you provide MIT Federal Credit Union with a payment order that identifies the beneficiary (recipient of the funds) by both name and account number, payment may be made by the beneficiary financial institution based on the account number, even if the number identifies a person different from the named beneficiary. If you provide MIT Federal Credit Union with a payment order that identifies an intermediary or beneficiary financial institution by both name and account number, the receiving financial institution may rely on the number as the proper identification even if it identifies a different financial institution than the one named.

If you are submitting this Domestic Wire Transfer Authorization via fax, email, or mail, ensure you include a copy of a valid government-issued ID. An MIT Federal Credit Union representative will contact you at the phone number(s) currently on file before processing the wire transfer. We DO NOT accept electronic or digital signatures. Any account owner who initiates a wire transfer must have a completed and signed Wire Transfer Application form on file.
